

The Human Mind

The human mind,
is one special kind.
It displays our god-given mental strength,
our individual length.
Even our human cohesion,
but also our superiority obsession.
It's the most dominate weapon of them all,
responsible for any success and downfall.

In the past it contained the element, to spot physical endangerment.

To implement certain plans, to protect any kind of the human clans.

To find any secure place,
on the earth's enormous surface,
to guarantee the existence of the human race.

But nowadays,
humans don't rely on single ways.
With the knowledge they once get,
they try to focus on a new target.

To perhaps introduce new and new inventions,
if this lies in their intentions.

If to be the good guy, they pretend,
or to be the egomaniac, in the end.

In which directions they will guide their mind,
which outcomes the will find,
is something hard to clarify,
to modify or identify.

What humans and their minds are up to
and finally able to do,
is an issue uncompleted,
'cause the human mind is multifaceted.

